CIA PROJECT

The main aim of our Project is to improve the skills and employability of young people with special attention to those with fewer opportunities by creating Local Intergenerational Civic Councils. The CIA Project makes the relationship between young and old extremely positive, allowing on the one hand the development of personal and professional skills based on the exchange of knowledge and experiences between young and old through Local Intergenerational Civic Councils, with the aim of improving the employability of young people and allow them access to civic decision-making, with special reference to the group of young people who, due to their poor training, experience or level of skills development, have greater difficulties in entering the labour market.

KICK OFF MEETING

During the 5th and 6th of March 2020, the Kick-off meeting of our project took place at the beneficiary's headquarters: the University of Castellón.

Representatives of all the partners attended and the details of the project were analysed: the different activities to be carried out were reviewed, the pre-designed responsibilities were distributed, the project schedule was reviewed and the first steps to be taken to achieve the proposed objectives were reviewed.

A very productive meeting during which the corporate image and the draft of the website were proposed.

FOLLOW-UP MEETINGS

Due to the sad reality of the global COVID-19 pandemic, it has forced us to delay the face-to-face meetings and to hold several follow-up ones online. It is not the same as face to face but, at least, we can meet to discuss what has been done and plan future activities.

The objectives of the last follow-up were:

1. Officially progressing with the CIA Project.
2. Present the final version of the material of the Operational Manual and Training Module - IO1.
3. Present the progress of the IO2 – Practical guide for facilitators and interlocutors of Intergenerational Civic Agents.
4. Overview of the first project newsletter.
5. Discussions on administrative issues.
6. Resolve all the doubts of the project.
